The Duty of Republicans to Give a full vote for Gov. Washburn.

Union men of all parties have a great duty to the country to perform at the coming election in Maine They must see to it that every loyal voter comes up to the polls and deposits his ballot against the candidate of the secession party—against the man who would basely yield to Jeff Davis and his armed rebels and thus consent to the destruction of the Union Every loyal man, of whatever party owes this duty to his country

But the Republicans, while doing this, have also the special duty of sustaining their own candidate for Governor They owe it not only to the country and to Mr Washburn himself, to give him a full vote for re-election, but to their own principles and their own organization. Personally, Gov Washburn is entitled to the warmest and most hearty support of the Republicans as Union men, as well as politicians—for he has given his whole time and all his energies to the cause of the country, from the very moment when the rebels opened their attack upon the Union at Fort Sumter He has labored incessantly,—oftentimes both day and night—in the work of sustaining the government,—scarcely visiting his home for months—and all without a single dollar of extra compensation, or any personal advantage to himself whatever It is scarcely to be expected that military preparations of such magnitude as he has organized and superintended could be carried on without giving some occasion for grumbling to disappointed men and chronic fault finders—but we believe there is little real cause for complaint. We believe there are few if any men in the State, who, in Gov Washburn's position, would have discharged the arduous duties of the Executive at this crisis, more to the advantage of the country and the State, or more to the satisfaction of the people, than he has discharged them. On the score of faithful and unremitting public service, therefore, Gov Washburn is entitled to the verdict of "Well done, good and faithful servant", and that recognition of his services can only be given by a full support at the ballot-boxes.

But the Republicans should sustain Governor Washburn by a full vote, as a token of the Republican faith which is in them. They placed him in the Executive chair, when it was both a pecuniary and political sacrifice by him, as the exponent of Republican principles. They believed those principles right. They were the principles of national freedom They made no attack upon the institutions of any State, and designed no interference with such institutions, but they declared their adhesion to the constitutional principles of Jefferson, that in the national jurisdiction freedom ought to prevail. The secessionists of the North have declared that the election of a Republican administration State and National, upon these principles, has been the cause of the great rebellion and of the present civil war This we deny—pointing to the well known fact that the Southern traitors have been organizing and preparing the great rebellion for many years, and have always determined to break up the Union at the first opportunity Now shall the Republicans place themselves in the position of apparently admitting the false charge of bringing on this war, by abandoning their own State or national administrations, when called upon to sustain them at the ballot-boxes? We think that a manly regard for their own principles and for their declarations of honest loyalty to the Union made in the last campaign, should forbid such a course. Every Republican should come forward heartily to the support of the State administration, not only as Union men and as a duty to the country, but as a manly vindication of their own national principles In recognition of the loyalty of the faithful democrats, we have been willing to act liberally towards them in county and town nominations but it is manifestly the duty of Republicans to stand firmly by their own State ticket, and to give a full vote for Governor Washburn

Capture of the Hatteras Forts

The gallant achievement by the recent naval expedition from Fortress Monroe, under Gen Butler and Commodore Stringham, is no less important than brilliant in its character, and will have an inspiring effect upon the people and upon the army of the Union The recent reverses have made the people impatient for some forward movement of the army or for some naval achievement which should in a measure redeem the Union cause from the ill effect of the reverse at Bull Run The army will advance in due season, when fully reinforced and better disciplined and when Washington and the line of the Potomac is secure against a flank movement of the enemy Meantime the navy has commenced a work which will probably give the rebels something to attend to at home—menacing the coast at so many points as to render it prudent for them to withdraw some of their troops from Virginia. The capture of the Hatteras forts is of itself a most important success not simply from the large amount of arms and military stores obtained, and the prisoners taken but chiefly from the fact that it places in our hands the control of those inland seas on the North Carolina coast—Pamlico and Albermarle Sounds—and enables us to stop the sending out out of numerous privateers and also the reception of great quantities of supplies by the rebels Norfolk Va., is connected with these Sounds by a canal, and has been regularly supplied with many articles by means of small vessels coming through the Hatteras Inlet The capture of the forts will also be followed up by other expeditions to the North Carolina coast and it is said that the important town of Wilmington will soon be taken or attempted to be taken thus creating a fire in the rear of the great rebel army If a permanent lodgment can be effected by U S troops it will furnish a rallying point for some of the Union men of that State, who are said to be numerous in many sections At all events our success at the forts will render it necessary for the rebels to employ a large number of troops in that vicinity

One feature in the affair is specially worthy of note The rebels have always bragged lustily of their courage, especially when defending their own soil from "invasion as they call the government operations against rebels. But what do we find in the case of the Hatteras forts? Instead of "fighting till the last man was slain," they ingloriously surrender as soon as the stones begin to be knocked about their heads, and when not more than forty or fifty of their men are killed The story which they sent to Louisville about "their ammunition being exhausted" is all humbug—for we find that among other things captured by our fleet were 75 barrels of powder for one item The rebels are quite as prudent as other men in fighting

Hatteras Inlet, where the captured forts are situated, is about fifteen miles south of Cape Hatteras, and half way between that Cape and Ocracoke Inlet. By taking these forts, our gunboats can pass through and command both of the great Sounds

☞ An attempt was made to hold a secession meeting in New Jersey a day or two ago, but it was frustrated by the uprising of the indignant communities of Middle town, Keyport, Red Bank, and the region round about, who organized a large mass meeting at Middletown, and passed a series of patriotic resolutions. Mr Thos. Dunn English, who had purposed addressing the secessionists, was roughly handled by the crowd, and had to be locked up by United States Marshal Denson, to save him from lynching. Not less than 2000 of the most respectable citizens of Monmouth were present, full one half of whom were of the Democratic party

Colonel Jameson's Acceptance.

BANGOR, August 21, 1861

COL. C. D JAMESON

Dear Sir The undersigned were appointed to inform you of your selection by the State Convention which assembled at Augusta on the 14th instant, as the candidate of the Democracy of Maine for the office of Governor, and to request your acceptance of the nomination. The Convention which placed you in nomination conceived it to be the duty of every citizen, in this perilous crisis of our country, to give the government a generous and cordial support, without regard to the political opinions of those who conduct it, and to that belief full expression has been given in the resolutions unanimously adopted.

We are, sir,
With great respect,
Your obedient servants,
EDMUND W FLAGG,
GEO W STANLEY,
CHARLES P KIMBALL.

WASHINGTON, Aug 27, 1861

Gentlemen It is with deep regret that I have learned of divisions in the Democratic party of Maine upon the momentous issue whose safe deliverance depends upon unity in the counsels and action of the people of the loyal States. The period of discussion has been cut short by a war which "has been forced upon the country by the disunionists of the South." That war is being conducted on our part, whatever fanatics may hope, or designing men declare, for the preservation of the Constitution and the Union In the contest every citizen must take one side or the other As for me, I shall go with you and those you represent, for our country and its flag—I shall stand by the Constitution which Democratic statesmen have ushered into existence and have maintained, and which Democratic soldiers are now offering up their lives to preserve

Our Government and Union are assailed and we must defend them, from whatever quarter the attack may come. They have made us prosperous and happy, and we should be regardless of the dictates of prudence even, should we give them up, their preservation involves our future peace and happiness, and our position among the nations of the earth, and we would be recreant to every obligation, to the past and the future should we fail to maintain them

I know how difficult it is to give up political predilections and political prejudices, but in this sad emergency of our country, which defies the minds the fullest exhibition of patriotism, can any Democrat hesitate as to what is his duty? It has ever been the proud boast and the highest glory of the Democratic party that it defended the Flag everywhere, right or wrong, against all its enemies, and cherished the Union and the Constitution Such are the lessons from the founders and standard bearers of the Democracy, from Jefferson down through Madison and Jackson to the noble Douglas, whose dying words breathed a prayer for their preservation, and if we fail to follow them in this perilous era of the country we shall be unworthy of the name and history of the old party to which we claim to belong Not only does duty but interest demand of us to stand by the country, for in a vigorous prosecution of the war is the only hope of a speedy peace With united act on and so just a cause as we possess I believe the rebellion will be put down the Stars and Stripes again float over all of the United States of America, and peace once more dispense its blessings in our beloved country

The nomination announced by you, I need not say, was as unexpected as it was unsought nor have I the vanity to regard it as deserved In ordinary times no considerations would have induced me to accept it but now, thinking the Democracy of Maine for their partisanship I can only says that if the use of my name can be made serviceable to the cause, it is with them

I am very respectfully,
Your obedient servant
CHARLES D JAMESON

AFTERNOON

The Jameson Democrats having taken no part in voting, assembled at the Court House, and made the following nominations

Co Attorney—C W Lovell of Foxcroft

Commissioner — W N Thompson of Foxcroft.

Treasurer—E. H Garusey of Dover

The Convention was addressed by Col Oakes, Dr Stevens, C W Lovell, and E S Pillsbury The secessionists are alarmed Stormy times ahead WOODBURY

☞ Concerning the bitter articles in the late London journals respecting American affairs, it is said the steamer Africa, on her last trip to Liverpool, was met at Cape Race by a telegraphic report that the rebels had attacked and reduced Washington The dispatch was the work, undoubtedly, of stock-jobbers in New York, in whose eyes a penny is larger than their country, the universe and God

SEA GULLING—Lieut Maurey is probably cheating the Confederate Government, as he cheated the United States when in our employ The alarms attempted to be given, in order to deter our forces from any encounter with the rebels at sea, have thus far proved "too big a boo, for so little a coll"

RUNNING THE BLOCKADE.—The British ship Alliance, formerly of Charleston, which sailed from St John, N B, with a cargo supposed to be especially adapted to the wants of the rebels, is reported to have arrived at Beaufort, N C, having successfully run the blockade This is the ship that attracted so much attention while loading at St. John a few weeks ago, and which it is said received a portion of her cargo from Boston

BURNING FLUID ACCIDENT In Ellsworth on Friday evening, Miss Abby Foster was frightfully burned by the breaking of a lighted fluid lamp The flames caught her skirts, but her hoops prevented their being smothered Several young men near by hearing her cries, rushed to her assistance, and soon extinguished the fire. She exhibited great presence of mind by falling upon the floor to prevent inhaling the flame and its extending to her vitals, when she found her own efforts unavailing Hopes are entertained of her recovery Charles F. Kidder, Luther Giles, George Osgood and John Kief's hands were considerably burned in their prompt and successful efforts to save her life.

☞ The Board of Aldermen did not get a quorum last evening, and the City Council adjourned to meet this evening at 7 o'clock.

At a review of the regiment by Gen McClellan on Tuesday last, 600 men appeared on parade.

☞ Last Friday evening some brutal depredators entered the barn of Michael Dunn, on Stillwater Avenue, and brutally cut and mangled a pig belonging to him, cutting the animal in no less than fifteen places It was probably the intention to kill the pig and carry him off but the design was for some reason abandoned Mr Dunn has previously had a number of his hens stolen We have heard of many other instances of depredations in the rural districts.

A NATURAL CURIOSITY We saw yesterday at the store of Mr T J Gilman, a natural curiosity of much interest. It was a portion of a deer's horn firmly imbedded in a beech limb about six inches through. About fourteen inches of the horn protrudes from the limb with every appearance of having been forced through it, but the opposite side of the limb was perfectly smooth, showing no mark of its entrance, whatever, and the lower part of the horn was firmly imbedded in the wood It was found in Castleton, Vt on the west side of Lake Bombanne, and presented to the Natural History Society of this city, by Dr J N Lathrop, of that place, through Mr Geo Hight, formerly of Gorham It may be seen for a few days at the store of Mr Gilman —Portland Courier

HERMON, Aug 31st, 1861

Messrs Wheeler & Lynde—

At the class convention here today held by the towns of Carmel, Levant and Hermon, as per notice in your paper of last week Mr Mark McLaughlin, (a Union Democrat,) of Carmel, was unanimously nominated to represent this class in the next Legislature, after which the following resolutions were read and unanimously adopted by the convention, and asked to be printed

Believing it to be the duty, as well as the privilege of all political assemblages, freely to express their loyalty and patriotism, we offer the following resolutions

Resolved, That the traitorous war inflicted upon us by the Southern rebels for the purpose of dissolving the Union, destroying our commerce and overturning our Constitutional Government, deserves at our hands, a most energetic warfare until the last vestige of rebellion is obliterated from our soil, and that the cry of peace is a subterfuge only for preparations to carry on a more vigorous warfare against the government

Resolved, That the Olive-branch of peace should only be held out to armed rebels and traitors upon the point of the bayonet, and if they will not accept of the first, they should be compelled to receive the last.

Resolved, That we heartily approve the patriotic course adopted by Gov Washburn in his prompt and ready response to the call of the President in furnishing money and troops to protect our flag and maintain our glorious Constitution unsullied by the hands of our Southern foes, and also of the gallantry and bravery with which Col Jameson led on the ever to be remembered 2nd Maine Regiment, to victory on the field of battle at Bull Run.

Resolved, That the nomination this day made for a representative to represent this class in the next Legislature of this State, should be strictly adhered to by every Union man in this class, and we do pledge our united efforts for his election

DR. VAN SWIETEN'S

OR PROTECTED

SOLUTION OF PROTOXIDE OF IRON COMBINED.

This well known Remedy has been used extensively and with great success for

DYSPEPSIA,

Or Impaired and Imperfect Digestion;

FOR THE CONSEQUENT

DETERIORATION OF THE BLOOD;

AND FOR THE FOLLOWING

FORMS OF DISEASE,

Most of which originate in DYSPEPSIA:

LIVER COMPLAINT, DROPSY, NEURALGIA and NERVOUS AFFECTIONS, LOSS OF APPETITE, HEADACHE, LANGUOR and DEPRESSION of SPIRITS, CARBUNCLES and BOILS, PILES, SCURVY, AFFECTIONS OF THE SKIN, CONSUMPTIVE TENDENCIES, BRONCHITIS, DISEASES PECULIAR TO FEMALES, & ALL COMPLAINTS ACCOMPANIED BY GENERAL DEBILITY, AND REQUIRING

A TONIC AND ALTERATIVE MEDICINE.

Note.—The failure of IRON as a remedy for Dyspepsia, a bad state of the blood, and the numerous diseases caused thereby, has arisen from the want of such a preparation of Iron as shall enter the stomach in a Protoxide state, and assimilate at once with the blood. This want the PERUVIAN SYRUP supplies, and it does so in the only form in which it is possible for Iron to enter the circulation. For this reason the PERUVIAN SYRUP often radically cures diseases in which other preparations of Iron and other medicines have been found to be of no avail.

Certificate of A. A. HAYES, M. D., of Boston.

It is well known that the medicinal effects of Protoxide of Iron are lost by even a very brief exposure to air, and that to maintain a solution of Protoxide of Iron, without further change, has been deemed impossible.

In the PERUVIAN SYRUP this desirable point is achieved by a process which is a perfect secret, and this is the first, perhaps, after so many years of experience, and the labors of the Materia Medica.

A. A. HAYES, Assayer to the State of Mass.
15 Boylston Street, Boston.

Certificate of Jos. R. Chilton, M. D., of N. York.

It is well known that it has been found very difficult to preserve a PROTOXIDE of Iron, for a reasonable time, in a medicinal state. Dr. Van Swieten's Combination of the Peruvian Syrup, I have pronounced to be, accomplished this desideratum.

JAMES R. CHILTON, M. D., Chemist.
